Dixon Seeks Website Photos with Dixon in Focus Contest

The City plans to refresh its website for a more modern look, most likely by the Spring of 2018. We would like to recognize local amateur photographers who have captured digital images recognizable as taken in the City of Dixon – people and activities (no portraits), parks, landscapes & cityscapes, culture & art, nature & animals. We are looking for images that can be used any time of the year, meaning no holiday imagery. If you choose to participate, a photo release form must be submitted which gives the City permission to publish on the website, reproduce in printed documents and use in social media. While there is no prize per se, you will get a photo credit and acknowledgement and know that thousands of people will get to see your work on a digital platform. It would be great to have images such as our annual Mayfair, Grillin N Chillin and the Annual Lambtown event to highlight on the City’s webpage.

The City is looking for incredible digital photographs, with preference for color images. Photographs should be relatively current and state when and where they were taken, no older than 2015. The format should be JPEG, TIFF, PSD, PNG (No GIF) and sent to WebPhoto@mail.ci.dixon.ca.us. Images should be at least 2200 pixels wide with a resolution of 72 dpi or higher. The deadline for initial review will be October 23. Depending on the number of entries received there may be an extension. The photo release form is available on the City’s website on the “Newsflash” portion on the front page.
